THE PRESIDENT WOULD LIKE TO SAY A FEW WORDS...

Dear Friends,

We have reached the month of Av, which starts in great sadness with Tisha b'Av, the saddest day of the Jewish year, when we mourn the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem, observed this year at the end of July.

Tradition tells us that this was caused by baseless hatred (Jews who couldn't get along!) The mood improves markedly by the time we reach Tu b'Av (the 15th of Av.) It is a minor holiday with a great message - Love!

Historically, a day when maidens would walk out in the fields and a man could find his beshert, it has become sort of a Jewish Valentine's Day; an auspicious day for proposing or even getting married. Looking at it somewhat differently, it can also be a day when we focus on love of others: calling a friend you have not spoken to in a long time, bringing food to someone in need or to People Helping People, bringing Kiddush wine to TBD for others to enjoy on Shabbat, spending an afternoon visiting someone who is sick or just lonely: the list is endless!

It's the perfect time to join the TBD Brotherhood or Sisterhood and show your love for others. What about practicing some self-love? Schedule a massage, facial or buy yourself a special treat.

Whatever you do, make Tu b'Av (August 2) a Day of Love!

Sending you love from New England,

L' Shalom,

Marlene

A message from the Rabbi.

הַעַמִּים לְכֹל יִקְרָא תְּפִלָּה בַּיִת בֵּיתִי כִּי

*My house will be called a house of prayer for all peoples.
~ Isaiah 56:7*

At Temple Beth David, we strive to create a community that is welcoming to all. But how do we do this? How can we be truly inclusive with an increasingly diverse community?

In an article entitled, “How focusing on diversity and inclusion can save synagogues,” Aimee Close writes:

“If synagogues are to remain relevant for our children and grandchildren, who will continue to come from more diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds, we must train our clergy, our lay leaders and our members not just to be welcoming, but to be fully inclusive and to foster a sense of belonging for all Jews and their families, regardless of race, gender identity, sexuality, disability, socioeconomic status or who they’re in a relationship with”.

In Parashat Shoftim later this month, we read תִּרְדֹּף צֶדֶק צֶדֶק “Justice, justice, you shall pursue.” (Deuteronomy 16:20.) How do we ensure that Temple Beth David is a space that is “just” for all Jews and their loved ones?

As described in the article, Building a Truly Diverse and Inclusive Jewish Community, many Jewish institutions that describe themselves as “warm and welcoming” unknowingly alienate and offend the same individuals that they are trying to engage. In other words, while many of us believe that we are inclusive and intend to be welcoming to all, there are people who walk through the doors of the Temple and feel that they do not in fact belong.

Being warm and welcoming is easier said than done. It is a continuous, evolving process that requires some soul searching and a lot of effort and energy to make a community truly inclusive and welcoming.

The good news is that Temple Beth David already has so many different ways that people can be engaged, active members who are committed to helping TBD thrive, and people who are passionate about the community. This incredible foundation helps position us to grow and thrive as we continue the process of cultivating an inclusive, welcoming community.

For the next few months, through this column, we'll continue the process of reflecting on a different aspect of helping cultivate a warm and welcoming community for everyone as we build on the incredible foundation. For this month, let's consider a quick and easy first step for cultivating a welcoming environment - greeting people.

As the initial point of interaction, a greeting let's people know they came to the right place - a place where they are welcome and wanted. Imagine walking into a building you've never been in and there are a lot of friendly people talking to one another, laughing, kibbitzing. While they may be very friendly with one another, someone new, or not part of a clique, can feel extremely unwelcome. Furthermore, some people come to Temple Beth David after not having stepped foot in a synagogue in many years or maybe never. Someone may have had a bad experience in shul that has them hesitant or nervous. Or a person may be entering a house of worship after a challenging life change or family situation.

While we can't read minds, we can notice those who are not sitting or talking with others. We can approach people and say, "hello," "welcome," "it's good to see you." Some may prefer sitting on their own and enjoying a more silent, peaceful moment, but can be acknowledged and welcomed into our community. One little "hello" can send a meaningful message that someone is welcome that can brighten the day and more broadly, contribute to a thriving Jewish community.

*Shalom Aleichem, Peace be upon you,
Rabbi Jen*

A message from the TBD Membership Committee

Your Temple Beth David Membership Committee has been working diligently on revamping our three-fold brochure.

The Publicity and Outreach committee contributed to ensuring the design for the final draft.

Now, we are into getting estimates for the print job.

We are finalizing plans for a New Members / Long Time Members luncheon in October. Invitations will be sent out.

This is in place of the Open House we had for many years.

Last year's luncheon was a success, so "why fix something that isn't broke" ?

We will ask one member of each committee to join us, so they can share information about what they do.

We can always use more members for our committee.

Please, if you are interested, consider joining us.

HAPPY AUGUST- BE SAFE, BE WELL!

Have you ever heard of Tu B'Av ? I did not...

Being an editor of the Chai Lights Newsletter gives some advantages. One of them is that one learns about Jewish holidays, especially those one never heard of.

Growing up in a secular Swedish-Jewish home, we celebrated the big holy days like the upcoming Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur, and of course, as a kid, Chanukkah as well.

Most of the time we celebrated these holidays with our families. It happened, especially when I become somewhat older, that my father took me to the Great Synagogue in Stockholm.

The Stockholm Synagogue is a conservative temple and most prayers are performed by the cantor in Hebrew. The siddur had Hebrew written on one side of the page and Swedish on the other side but you never knew where the Rabbi or Cantor was in the text. Much later after some study on my own into Hebrew, I was able to, from time to time, find where I was in the text but shortly thereafter then I lost myself again, just after recognizing the correct words. But I can assure you that no one mentioned Tu B'Av.

The Great Synagogue in Stockholm, on a winter day.

The first time I heard about this holiday was when I prepared this edition of the Chai Light Newsletter.

Well, let me state a reservation – my memory is like the RAM memory in the computer – easy come, easy go...

So as you already hopefully have read Marlene's "The President would like to say a few words..." in the beginning of the newsletter, you have the idea.

Studying some internet sites – isn't it amazing how easy it is to find information, nowadays? – gave an interesting conclusion - these two holidays couldn't be more different from each other.

Close to 2000 years ago the Roman empire nearly extinguished the Jewish civilization.

The Rabbis of the Talmud asserted that this catastrophe happened because of "baseless hatred" among Jews.

Back then, there were bitter factions among the Jews, nearly causing Jewish civil wars. That led to a Roman crackdown on the Jewish community. This in return, led to a Jewish uprising against Rome which ended in devastation for the Jews.

Hmm... sounds like the world today. Hasn't mankind learned anything? Obviously not...

The Torah states that Jews should love other Jews. Consequently, it is a sin for a Jew to hate another Jew.

So it is a good thing that Tisha B'Av is followed by Tu B'Av.

Obviously, in ancient Israel, during this holiday it was the tradition of Jewish singles to mingle and try to find a spouse.

Women would put on white garments and joyfully play around in the wine yards followed by young men on the market for a bride.

Why white dresses?

There is at least one explanation, at least to the idea to have the same dress color – and I make a reservation if this is true - girls would exchange their white dresses so no one would know by the clothing who was rich and who was poor, therefore they arranged a clothing swap.

Nowadays, it also seems to be a tradition in Israel for women to dress up in white even if I haven't seen it myself. At least if you read what it states on the internet, but as we know, it is not always true...

I prefer to enjoy the Swedish summer in these days, not far away from the Arctic circle, instead of the hot "ditto" in Tel Aviv during the month of July...

Another thing to do at Tu B'Av is, of course, to study the Torah since the night starts to get longer.

I can sign up on that reason, even if there are some days left until we have just few hours of sunlight over here. This morning when this was edited the sunrise in Stockholm was at 3:30am. The Shabbos services are really starting late in the summer over here.

On Friday August 4th, the Shabbes start at 8:50pm and ends on Saturday August 5th at 10:32pm. Applying these times for TBD, I would guess a representative part of the congregation would be sound asleep before the service ends...

Back to Tu B'Av:

Our Rabbi can surely give us more information on this holiday and if there were a reason for having these holidays following each other.

Another remarkable fact for a Jewish holiday is that, except for Jews living in Lebanon and Syria, there is no specific food to eat on Tu B'Av.

Anyway, I wish you pleasant Tu B'Av hoping that you can celebrate it with good friends.

Kindly,

Your Editor.

Scroll of Remembrance

Each year, Temple Beth David prepares a memorial booklet listing those loved ones we wish to remember.

If you would like to have your beloved departed included in our “Yom Kippur Scroll of Remembrance book” for Tishri 5784, September 24th, 2023, and have not done so last year, please fill it in and return this form to the Temple Office with a check, made out to Temple Beth David, $3.00 per person. (i.e. “Shirley and Robert Cohen” would be $6.00, whether it’s on one line or two), no later than September 16th, 2023.

Sample of cover.

If you have previously listed your loved ones, you will receive a form in the mail, which you can edit and return with payment.

Payment must accompany this form or your listing will not be included.
